

A man the sark of all masters of Knowledge equal designing (war) we need here only of his Berdienste of the anatomy & Physiol. ---

Haller had in his work on the Swiss flora of (the) ^{last} under the slanguage his (wind) himself ^{gerving} a nature systems, of ...

against Linné's system ^{he raised} an objection, that the Berhaltung of the author and protel.

The manly way ^{Haller's} of (the) struggle, so many (quit) to the möglich a natural system. chosen, he followed.

His remembrance driving it so far that he under the name of his son Eusebius, a boy of 15 years, increased the assault against the great reformer of physical sciences: hurled, when one however considers, that Linné from the character and name of the species borrowed z. B. Fournesack often not sufficiently

[Found in G.L. Goodale's copy of Geschichte der Botanik
by Emil Wincker, Hist. W72]